

Society for Applied Anthropology Copyright and Permissions Policy Statement

The Society owns exclusive rights to all materials that are included in the official journals/publications of the organization. This includes Human Organization, Practicing Anthropology, and the SfAA Newsletter. It also includes all titles in the Monograph Series as well as the other official and sponsored publications of the Society.

Policies Governing the Reproduction of Materials from SfAA Publications

1. All reproduction requires the written permission of the Society. The request must include the proposed form of publication with full bibliographic citation. The granting of permission by the Society is contingent upon the payment of the required fee. Requests may be e-mailed to info@sfaa.net.
2. A person must apply and obtain permission for any subsequent editions, re-publication or re-printing.
3. Articles reproduced in full must include all tables and figures, footnotes or notes, and bibliography or references cited as originally published unless the Society agrees to these deletions and a statement to this effect is executed. Any excerpt reproduced must provide the proper context of the quotation. Any change in material reproduced may be made only with the specific consent of the publisher, a copy of which must accompany the completed forms submitted to the Society. Translations must be submitted to the Society for approval prior to publication.
4. When granted, permission is non-exclusive. Unless otherwise specified, permission is valid throughout the world in the English language and in Braille.
5. The customary publications fee is waived for authors who wish to reproduce their own materials elsewhere. The Office of the Society should be notified and provided upon publication with a copy of the reproduced book or journal.

Copyright / Permission Types and Fees

Books and Journals for Reprint

The fee for reprinting in book or journal form is $20 for the first page or significant part thereof, and $10 for each additional page or significant part thereof.

For reprinting in books or journals the publisher or his/her representative must contact the SfAA office (info@sfaa.net) and must sign and return the form when provided.

Upon publication, a copy of the book or journal in which the reproduction occurs must be provided to the Office of the Society.

Webpage

Requests for electronic reproduction require additional consideration and must be addressed directly to the SfAA office (405) 843-5113.

Articles for Classroom Reproduction

The fee for classroom reproduction is 50¢ per copy up to 100 copies, 25¢ thereafter.

Procedures

The publisher or his/her representative must contact the SfAA office (info@sfaa.net). Then you will be provided with a form that you will need to sign and return. This will include instruction on a line of attribution. If permission is granted, the Society will invoice the publisher for the appropriate amount.
